Kobe Burger

Kobe beef is a special type of meat that comes from the Japanese region of Kobe. The cattle that produce the prime beef products are called Wagyu. While the meat originally came directly from Japan, after live Wagyu were exported, breeders in other countries began producing Kobe beef. Most Kobe beef today comes from Australia and California. The US Dept. of Agriculture has strict certification procedures and verifications. If you haven't tried Kobe beef yet you're missing out!
